The Facility User Program

Under this program researchers are granted access to come in person and use our equipment to pursue their own research and fabrication projects. This program is open to members of the University of Houston, other universities, nonprofit organizations and industry. It is supported by charging usage fees; see the current fee schedule and policies here [1]. Researchers participating in this program are generally referred to as "facility users" or just "users" for short. More information on becoming a user can be found here [2].
